

HOW TO HAVE ABRAHAM'S FAITH

Abraham's faith was strong enough to follow God, even when He withheld the name of the place to which He was leading him. And so it requires great faith to rest satisfied with the promise, when the time of payment is unknown. But if we consider whom we trust, there is no reason to fear that He will fail or delay a minute longer than the set time of the promise.

It is most true, as someone has said, that though God seldom comes at our day because we seldom reckon right, yet he never fails his own day. Be careful not to measure God's miles by your own scale. His near maybe your far. God could easily have told his people the very time he meant to perform each promise, but he has concealed it to build our faith.
